

Welcome to the Wetlands, Algae and Biogas project's Final Conference!

The 28th of November 2012 in Trelleborg, Sweden

The WAB-project is a Swedish-Polish cooperation project, which aims to counteract eutrophication of the Baltic Sea and produce renewable energy. The project is a forerunner in the area of biogas production from marine substrates and nutrient recycling from the sea. The results from the projects' three years will be presented in popular science lectures and scientifically posters session at the WAB project final conference. You are most welcome to join us in Trelleborg on November 28th!

To register for the conference, please send an e-mail with your name, organization and food preferences to matilda.gradin@trelleborg.se .
Last date for registration is the 20th of November
